SCHOOL FACTS FOR FAYETTE COUNTY

Recently, The Miami Trace Board of Education has circulated a paper titled -- "Additional Facts Concerning the Miami Trace Proposal". The purpose of this statement is to misrepresent the tax situation that would apply to Miami Trace Taxpayers if Both City and Miami Trace Districts were merged.

IT IS COMPLETELY FALSE

They talk about consolidation, and both districts would spend money and operate exactly as they do now, with duplication of administrative staffs, facilities, personnel and operations, plus the existing three boards of education. The purpose of a survey and Citizens Committee investigation would be to find and ELIMINATE ALL areas of duplication and excess spending, and the first concrete result of merger would be the reduction and elimination of duplicating expense.

One thing is sure -The Districts would not operate as they do now. Therefore, NO ONE, INCLUDING THE MIAMI TRACE BOARD, is qualified to present any so-called millage rates, as applying to a nonexistent, consolidated district not yet surveyed or investigated.

This latest effort is much like the completely false information they presented last spring in another similar statement.

At that time they padded the local tax expenditures of both boards by almost $50,000 in order to create a fake 11.62 millage figure, when they knew that actual total expenditures could only justify and would be met by 10.85 millage.

FURTHERMORE, — under the law of Ohio, as the Miami Trace and County Boards know, the millage rates of the district which has the lowest rate, automatically apply to the entire consolidated district. This is with respect to millage within the 10 mill statutory limitation.

Miami Trace has the lowest rate - 4.2, — City, 4.7.

Any millage outside the mandated levy would have to be voted by the District voters on the basis of proven need for funds. Any additional millage required, including reaching the 10-mill level would have to be approved by the voters, exactly as was the case in Miami Trace last year.

The County Superintendent and Miami Trace Board know this. They explained the procedure to Miami Trace citizens in a printed 4-page statement distributed October 7, 1955, titled Miami Trace Summary Statement.

The answer is — to further mislead us. VOTE AGAINST THE MIAMI TRACE

Why then, do they now release false figures and misleading assumptions?

U. N. Council Gives OK To 6-Principle Setup

UNITED NATIONS (P) - U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold today prepared to make a new effort to bring Britain, France and Egypt to agreement in the Suez Canal dispute.

The task of mediation was kicked back to the secretary general after Security Council endorsement of six principles for a settlement, worked out in private talks with Hammarskiold. and a Soviet veto of a Britsh-French demand for international operation of the waterway.

One thing is sure -The Districts would not operate as they do now. Therefore, NO ONE, INCLUDING THE MIAMI TRACE BOARD, is qualified to present any so-called millage rates, as applying to

This latest effort is much like the completely false information they presented last spring in another similar statement. At that time they padded the local tax expenditures of both boards by almost $50,000 in order to create a fake 11.62 millage figure, when they knew that actual total expenditures could only justify and would be met by 10.85

FURTHERMORE, - under the law of Ohio, as the Miami Trace and County Boards know, the millage rates of the district which has the lowest rate, automatically apply to the entire consolidated district. This is with respect to millage within the 10 mill statutory limitation.

Miami Trace has the lowest rate - 4.2, — City, 4.7.

The answer is — to further mislead us.

a nonexistent, consolidated district not yet surveyed or investigated.

Any millage outside the mandated levy would have to be voted by the District voters on the basis of proven need for funds. Any additional millage required, including reaching the 10-mill level would have to be approved by the voters, exactly as was the case in Miami Trace last year.

The County Superintendent and Miami Trace Board know this. They explained the procedure to Miami Trace citizens in a printed 4-page statement distributed October 7, 1955, titled Miami Trace Summary Statement.

Why then, do they now release false figures and misleading assumptions?

Encouragement But Final Proof Still Needed From all reports available, parents in the Chicago board of health, states flatly Fayette County and all over Ohio appear to regard the use and reasonably apparent effectiveness of the Salk polio vaccine as being remarkably encouraging.

In this county the distribution and use of this vaccine among school children by the Fayette County Health Departm ent with the aid of physicians of the county, quite definitely has won general approval.

It is reported that in 14 states, including Ohio, where the disease struck most heavily in 1956, the vaccine apparently has saved many thousands of youngsters from the crippling effects of poliomyelitis.

As an example, official reports show that of the 1.5 million children receiving the full protection of three shots last summer only seven contracted polio and none died. Moreover, the incidence among those inoculated only once, was far lower than the average of the last four years; in some states 90 per cent of the cases occurred among the children who had no Salk protection.

While all this appears to offer a bright outlook, these statistics cannot as yet be acclaimed as conclusive proof that the Salk vaccine is the means of permanently halting the advance of polio in recent

Ohio's State Health Director, Dr. Ralph E. Dwork, hesitates to say that the 60 per cent drop in reported polio cases can be attributed wholly to Salk vaccination. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of that even though the 1956 polio crisis in that city eased after his board set up round - the - clock inoculation centers in areas of greatest incidence, "there is no scientific evidence to show that the vaccination program was responsible for stopping the outbreak."

Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., of the polio vaccine evaluation center in Ann Arbor, Mich., believes this year's record reinforces his previous conclusions that the Salk serum is absolutely safe and potent. He adds, however, that 'except for certain areas this is a low year for polio in the United States generally. This decline seems to be associated with natural fluctuations rather than being attributable to the vaccinations."

Such comments by leading medical authorities probably are born more of caution than of skepticism. All are optimistic, of course; most seem convinced that the vaccine will stand the test of time and are anxious to give shots not only to all youngsters below 15 but to adults up to the age

Such blanket coverage over an extended period of time would provide an accurate gauge for measuring the protective power of the Salk discovery. At present there is the strong hope that its potency will be proved beyond any doubt but it is still needful of further use to gain positive

Doctor Has Reason For All His Actions

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

While the witch doctor of dark Africa may cavort around his patient in weird, meaningless dances, the modern physician has a reason for every action he performs in the course of a physical examination.

Many of you, however, undoubtedly wonder what one earth a doctor can learn simply by tapping your chest with his fingers, listening with his stethoscope, taking your pulse or peering into your eyes.

Let's say that you go to your doctor for a heart examination.

One of the first things he probably will do will be to tap your chest at various points. He does it to determine the size of your heart. It's based on the same principle that you use when you tap a wall to find the studs. When the doctor taps the part of your chest occupied by the airfilled lungs, he hears a clear sound. But tapping over the dense muscle of the heart produces a dull and flat sound.

Noise of Valves With the aid of his stethoscope, he can listen to the noise your heart makes as the valves open and close. These sounds often tell him whether he valves are functioning properly, whether you were born with a defective heart by surgery

With the aid of a bright light he peers at the tiny blood vessels in the back of your eyes. Many times the condition of these vessels give him a clue to important changes that may have occurred in your circulatory system.

As you can see, a doctor can tell a lot about your insides from the outside.

Encouragement But Final Proof Still Needed

Fayette County and all over Ohio appear to regard the use and reasonably apparent effectiveness of the Salk polio vaccine as being remarkably encouraging.

In this county the distribution and use of this vaccine among school children by the Fayette County Health Departm ent with the aid of physicians of the county, quite definitely has won general approval.

It is reported that in 14 states, including Ohio, where the disease struck most heavily in 1956, the vaccine apparently has saved many thousands of youngsters from the crippling effects of poliomyelitis.

As an example, official reports show that of the 1.5 million children receiving the full protection of three shots last summer only seven contracted polio and none died. Moreover, the incidence among those inoculated only once, was far lower than the average of the last four years; in some states 90 per cent of the cases occurred among the children who had no Salk protection.

While all this appears to offer a bright outlook, these statistics cannot as yet be acclaimed as conclusive proof that the Salk vaccine is the means of permanently halting the advance of polio in recent

Ohio's State Health Director, Dr. Ralph E. Dwork, hesitates to say that the 60 per cent drop in reported polio cases can be attributed wholly to Salk vaccination. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of

Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., of the polio vaccine evaluation center in Ann Arbor, Mich., believes this year's record reinforces his previous conclusions that the Salk serum is absolutely safe and potent. He adds, however, that 'except for certain areas this is a low year for polio in the United States generally. This decline seems to be associated with natural fluctuations rather than being attributable to the vaccinations."

Such comments by leading medical authorities probably are born more of caution than of skepticism. All are optimistic, of course; most seem convinced that the vaccine will stand the test of time and are anxious to give shots not only to all youngsters below 15 but to adults up to the age

Such blanket coverage over an extended period of time would provide an accurate gauge for measuring the protective power of the Salk discovery. At present there is the strong hope that its potency will be proved beyond any doubt but it is still needful of further use to gain positive

Let's say that you go to your doctor for a heart examination.

One of the first things he probably will do will be to tap your chest at various points. He does it to determine the size of your heart. It's based on the same principle that you use when you tap a wall to find the studs. When the doctor taps the part of your chest occupied by the airfilled lungs, he hears a clear sound. But tapping over the dense muscle of the heart produces a dull and flat sound
